

Lives After Death: Pyramids of Giza Island Map with Key

Teachers can use this map of the features and discoveries in the Wonders: Pyramids Of Giza Fortnite island (ISLAND CODE: 0458-0828-0073) to prompt students to explore the island further, to help if students are struggling to find what they're looking for in the various lesson activities, or even to create a "guided tour" for the class. A key is provided below, with brief details for each location, but teachers may want to research some points more deeply to contextualize specific features for students.

1	The point where the player spawns into the experience.
2	The Nile River.
3	The Great Sphinx, still under construction at this time. Players can finish carving out the Great Sphinx from a single, colossal piece of bedrock.
4	Locally-quarried blocks of white limestone used to encase the pyramids. In modern times, this smooth finish is mostly missing.
5	Red granite used to construct the pyramids and the surrounding temples. It was floated down the Nile from quarries in Aswan, 800 kilometers away.
6	Khafre's Valley Temple, where the pharaoh's body would be prepared for mummification and burial.
7	Two statues of temple deities guard the entrance to Khafre's Temple to keep out evil and to protect the soul of the pharaoh.
8	Players can perform the Opening of the Mouth Ceremony, a rite performed on a statue of Khafre to ensure that he could speak as he navigated the afterlife.
9	Find evidence of the Sphinx being aligned with Khufu's pyramid, as though guarding it. It was built by Khafre, Khufu's son, perhaps to honor his late father.
10	Use of the Temple of The Great Sphinx isn't known, but it probably had something to do with the solar cycles that were central to ancient Egyptian beliefs. At this stage it was still under construction.
11	A causeway runs nearly 500 meters from the temple by the river up to Khafre's pyramid.

12	The Wall of the Crow separated the sacred Giza complex from the city inhabited by the pyramid builders and their families. Players can find an example of preserved graffiti by one of the work gangs.
13	One of the quarries for the stone used to construct the statues and temples surrounding Khafre's pyramid. Players can carve statues of some of Khafre's royal viziers (advisors) from the rock.
14	An example of the meals that pyramid workers may have eaten — beer in sealed earthenware vessels and round loaves of bread.
15	Khafre's Pyramid (unfinished) stands next to the pyramid of his father, Khufu.
16	The pyramidion, or capstone for the pyramid, bears Khafre's name in hieroglyphics. It was believed to be the conduit by which the dead pharaoh's soul could ascend to the sun.
17	Across the top of the unfinished pyramid are some examples of the tools used by the pyramid builders: chisel, wedge, saw, and flint scraper.
18	Various mastabas, or rectangular tombs with an underground chamber, typically built for notable aristocrats, artisans and other important non-royals.
19	Khafre's Pyramid Temple is another temple for the preparation of the pharaoh's body and soul after death.
20	Petiti's Tomb, one of the mastabas that housed the remains of one of the pyramids' architects, has an imaginative curse over its door, designed to deter grave robbers.
21	Hemunu's Tomb is another mastaba that housed the remains of the pyramid's architect. Note that it is aligned with the top of Khufu's pyramid behind it.
22	Khufu's Solar Barque is a complete buried ship, designed to be used by the Pharaoh Khufu for travel in the afterlife alongside the sun god Ra. It may also have carried his body to Giza on the Nile.
23	The Queen's Pyramids — before the Great Pyramid was built, Khufu's mother, Hetepheres I, was buried in a simpler tomb within a smaller pyramid. Khufu chose this site so he could be close to his mother in the afterlife.
24	Khufu's Valley Temple was where the pharaoh's body was prepared for mummification and burial.
25	A causeway connects the two temples of Khufu, symbolizing the passage between the lands of the living and the dead. The causeway is covered but with a narrow opening to allow rays of sunlight to illuminate the walls.
26	Khufu's Funerary Temple was built on one side of the Great Pyramid to house the complex funerary rituals for the pharaoh.
27	Players can make an offering to the statue of Khufu in this temple. The veneration of the pharaoh continued even after his death.
28	When all of the island objectives have been completed, a secret door will open here. It has been theorized that this room is where the pharaoh himself would have worshiped the gods.
29	Khufu's Pyramid: this is the Great Pyramid, and one of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World.
30	The pyramidion, or capstone for the pyramid, bears Khufu's name in hieroglyphics. It was believed to be the conduit by which the dead pharaoh's soul could ascend to the sun.
31	Menkaure's Pyramid is a smaller pyramid, built after Khafre's death, built to honor his son Menkaure.
